William Vance (1718-1788) & Mary Colville Gilkeson (?-?)

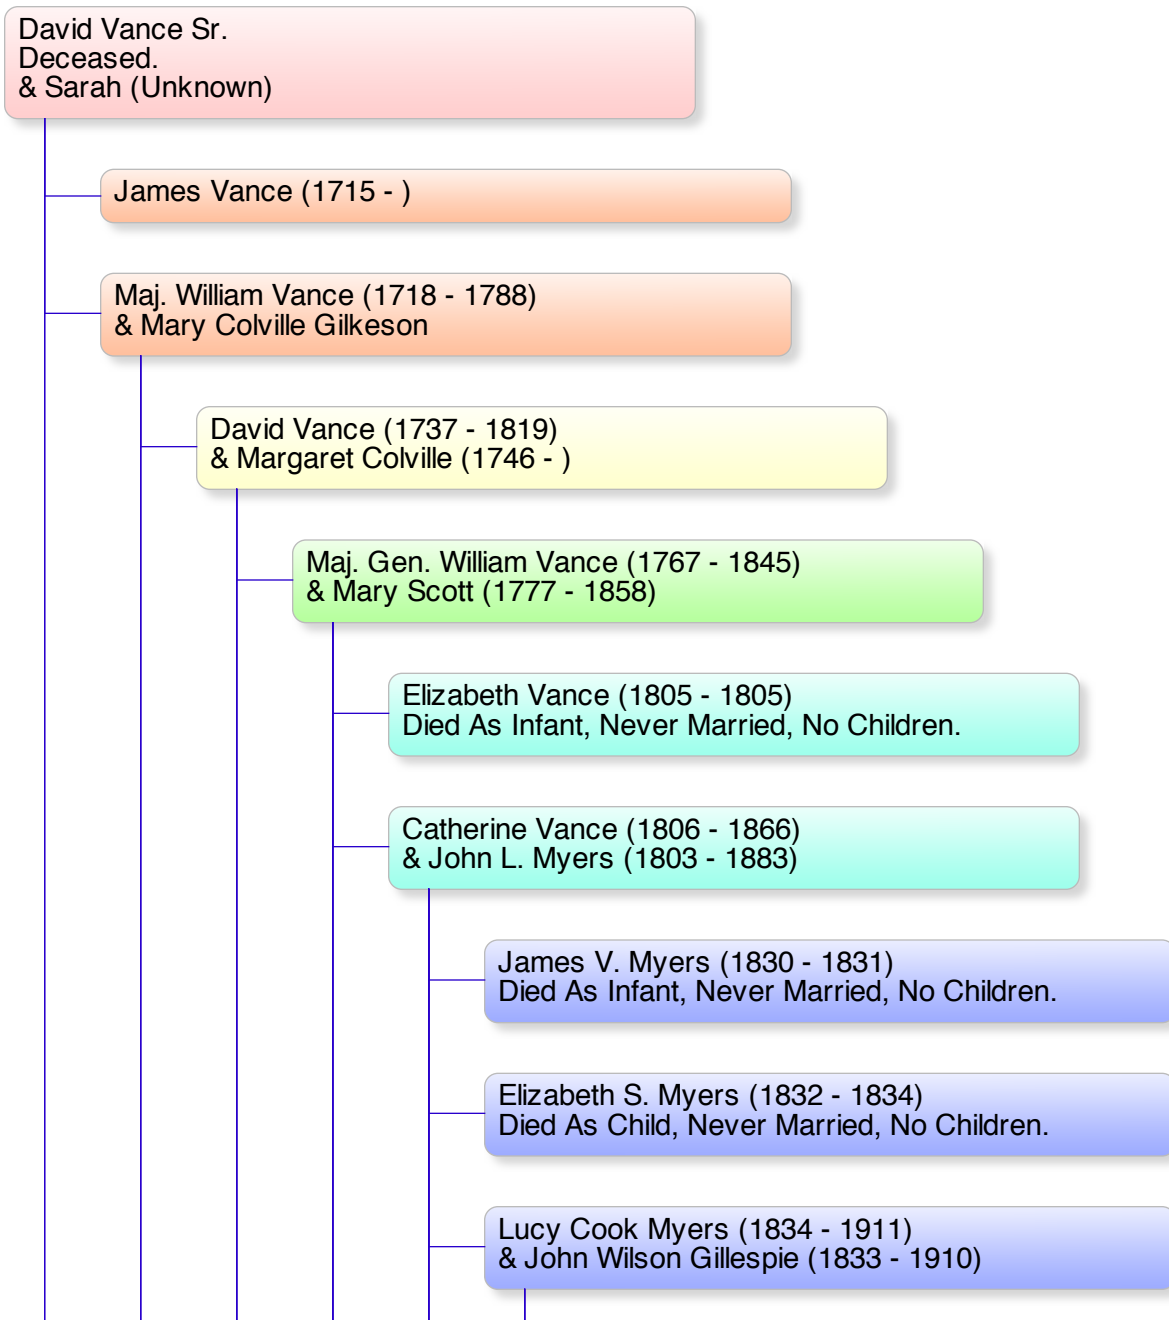

- William moved to Washington Co., Pennsylvania, sometime in the late 1750's and became a prominent citizen there. He built a stone fort with his son Joseph, which was unusual since most Scotch-Irish built crude log cabins. It became a gathering spot for locals as it served as protection from Indian raids, was a commercial center, and was used for church and social events. William, along with son Joseph, was a founder of the Cross Creek Presbyterian Church. There is a history of this church in the Collier Co. Genealogical collection that contains all sorts of information about these Vances. Vances that moved from Virginia to Pennsylvania carried warrants for land issued by Virginia because Virginia claimed most of western Pennsylvania as Virginia property. This was a bone of contention with Pennsylvania citizens, some of them thinking they owned the same land, and the dispute was not resolved until the Mason-Dixon line was established, which granted the land to Pennsylvania. William, along with sons David and Joseph, were staunch defenders of Virginia and belonged to Virginia militia units. William became a major, and served at that rank when his unit was incorporated into the Revolutionary army.

David Vance (1737-1819) & Margaret Colville (?-?)

- David moved to Westmoreland County, Pennsylvania, probably in the late 1760's, east of his father and brother Joseph. When the Revolutionary War broke out David became a Captain in the 5th Company, 3rd Battalion, of the Pennsylvania militia.

William Vance (1767-1845) & Mary Scott (1777-1858)

- For all of their known living great-great-great-grandchildren (or the next living descendants) see Cousins of Jack Myers & Mary Tessier - VANCE.
- Three of their children married Myers siblings. Catherine L. Vance, Elizabeth Vance, and Batteal Harrison Vance were married respectively to John Lewis Myers, Isaac Smith Myers, and Adeline Myers, so their descendants descend from both the Vance and Myers lines.
